The many friends of Captain L. W. DeMotte, personnel adjutant of Camp Gordon, were delighted Tuesday to learn that he has been promoted to the rank of major, and yesterday the major was the recipient of widespread congratulations.

BELGIAN HERO

Impales Self on Boche Wire to Save Lives of His Comrades.

Paris, Sept. 9.—There reached Paris today the story of a Belgian martyr who recovered. Late in July a Belgian platoon was ordered to attack and capture "Canopus trench," one of the most extensive and strongest of the German works before Ypres. Thirty-five men, under command of Lieutenant Rousseau, were assigned to the task of surprising the trench.

It was necessary for the success of the operation for the raiders to follow the wake of their barrage so closely that they could leap into the trench before the German machine gun crews could get from the dugouts, whither they had been driven by the barrage. But upon arrival before the trench it was found that the wire defenses had not been cut by the barrage. For the fraction of a second the platoon faced disaster.

Then a man sprang forward, crying, "Climb over me." He hrew himself full length on to the German wire. The long spikes drove into his body, but he never quivered while his companions climbed over him one by one and swarmed into the German trenches in time to bayonet the boche as he came from his dugout.

Up and down the trench the different parties tore, stabbing with a trench knife here, hurling a grenade there, taking a captive beyond. In just eighteen minutes the platoon had returned with its prisoners. It was a record operation. The lieutenant was about to report the loss of the man who had thrown himself upon the wire when two figures loomed up in the dark. It was the hero—and a prisoner. Notwithstanding his wounds he had detached himself from the wire hurled himself into the trench, fought throughout the raid and was the last man to return, bringing in with him the last German who remained alive in "Canopus trench."

Grand Theater.

"The Return of Draw Egan" is the vehicle in which William S. Hart will be seen at the Grand tomorrow. That Hart is the star of the production is an assurance that patrons of this theater will get the worth of their money. The added attraction will be the first run of a two-reel Keystone comedy.

BUSY DAY FOR SCHOOLS

Five Hundred Permits Issued up to 2 O'clock This Afternoon—White Children May Get Permits Tomorrow And Wednesday.

Permits to children to attend the public schools were issued beginning today by Gilbert J. Cox, clerk of the city school board, assisted by G. William Ramsay. There was a big rush and the clerk and his assistant were kept busy throughout the day in this work. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon 500 had been issued.

Long before the hour for the work started there was a long stream of children and many parents on hand to obtain the required permits for their children to attend the public schools which will open next Monday morning.

The children after obtaining the permits went to the principals of the respective schools and were assigned to the grades in which they will study at this session and had their book lists marked.

They will have the remainder of the week in order to obtain the necessary books.

The work of issuing permits will be continued tomorrow at Lee school and on Wednesday permits will be issued for children to attend West End school.

Thursday and Friday colored children will obtain permits.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION

Many Persons Who Will Be Out of City Thursday Registered Today With Local Draft Board.

There was a rush this morning in the rooms of the local draft board among persons who expect to be out of the city next Thursday. As a result the local draft board was kept busy all day in registering all who applied. However, it was stated this afternoon that the work will be discontinued except for those who will be out of the city on that day. Many of those who registered this morning were railroad men. Several hundred already have registered.

Two drafted men who were to have gone with the draft men last week to Camp Lee, Va., entrained today for that place.

PLAY WEEK LAUNCHED

Fifteen Chaplains and Y. M. C. A. Workers From Camp Humphreys Fill Pulpits in Churches Yesterday. Special Features Every Night This Week—Community Sing at Christ Church Yard Tonight.

Play week certainly had a most successful advent last evening, when fifteen chaplains and Y. M. C. A. workers from Camp Humphreys sat down to a fine banquet in the main hall of the War Camp Community Service building, presided over by Major Totten, and Chaplain Hammitt as principal speaker. A. B. Nies, Y. M. C. A camp athletic director, outlined the features of play week for the benefit of those present in order that each could include them in their remarks at the different churches. After the dinner Major Totten asked for a rising vote of thanks to be extended to the ladies who furnished the excellent repast. Most of the members of the executive committee of the War Camp Community Service and pastors of the local churches acted as a reception committee to greet the visiting pastors as they assembled at the hall, and conducted them to the different churches where they had been assigned by Chaplain Hammitt, after the dinner. The ladies' committee furnishing the dinner included Mrs. T. C. Howard, chairman of the Playground Committee; Mrs. Charles J. Deahl, Miss Katherine Waller, Miss Rose McDonald, Mrs. Albert Dreifus and Miss Evelyn Howard.

The important event of the evening was the fact that virtually every church in the city, including the Protestant, Catholic and colored denominations, had for its speaker a man in uniform from the camp.

The program for this evening will be held in the Christ Church yard and will consist of community singing, chorus singing by one hundred soldiers from Camp Humphreys, solos by "Happy Jack" Lambert and music by the band from the camp. Mr Reynolds, camp song leader, will direct the singing. The "Ship Builders' Night" has been replaced for Tuesday by the entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Jewish Welfare Association, of which Mrs. R. P. Whitestone is the chairman of the Entertainment Committee, at W. C. C. S. hall for the men in uniform and the general public, with no charge for admission. Wednesday night, patriotic pageant, folk dances and flag drill on the playground; Thursday night, "hike," "hot doggie" and "marshmallow roast;" Friday, "cabaret" at War Camp Community Service Hall at 8:15 p.m. Charges for admission to be 25 and 50 cents, and the week to conclude with "Soldiers' Home Night," when nearly 500 soldiers will be entertained in as many homes in the city at supper, and afterward enjoy the pleasures of the home circle and, where possible, spend the night in the homes. The party, with Mr. Turner driving, were en route from China Grove to Denton, near here, to spend Sunday.

PRESS ON ST. QUENTIN

British Capture More Than Nineteen Thousand Prisoners in France During Past Week.

Paris, Sept. 9.—The French have captured Mennessis, five miles northwest of La Fere, and have reached the St. Quentin (Crozat) Canal, the war office announces.

South of the Oise the French progressed in the region of Servais, the statement says. Servais lies less than two miles southwest of La Fere.

Further south (north of the Aisne) the French and Americans held their positions around Laffaux and Colles against German counter attacks.

Two successful raids were executed in the Champagne, where prisoners were taken.

London, Sept. 9.—With the capture, late Saturday, of the villages of Villeveque and St. Emile, announced by Field Marshal Haig in his early report yesterday, the British have moved their lines to within six miles and a quarter west of St. Quentin (at Villeveque) and 5 and a half miles of Le Catelet (at St. Emile). This town is the main Hindenburg defense line, half way between St. Quentin and Cambrai. Capture of these places marked further progress of nearly two miles on both wings of the attacking line, fronting the St. Quentin-Le Catelet sector.

The greater part of Havrincourt Wood, the formidable natural position which has been holding up the British advance for days astride the Bapaume-Cambrai highroad, also was captured, Haig announced.

Further headway was made in Flanders.

London, Sept. 9.—More than 19,000 prisoners were taken by the British in France during the first week of September, Field Marshal Haig announces in his report.

London, Sept. 9.—Just a month ago yesterday the real "battle of 1918" crashed loose with Rawlinson's stunning blow to the Teuton army facing Amiens. Up to that date Foch's campaign, begun July 18, had been a counter offensive.

Every hour of every day and night since the Germans have been withdrawing, retreating, fleeing, with the allied line of attack gradually spreading to a front of 140 miles, from Ypres to the west of Rheims.

At last, yesterday, the great German retreat began to show signs of a halt. The enemy has his back to the wall, a breach of which will send him staggering back to the Meuse and the Belgian frontier. Indications are he means to avert, or at least to stave off, such a disaster to his armies of invasion.

His center stands east of the line of St. Emille-Villeveque, fronting the St. Quentin-le-Catelet sector of his "wall of fate." Both places are in British hands.

PERFECTING MACHINE TO RESTORE SIGHT OF BLINDED SOLDIERS

NICE, France, Sept. 9.—An invention is being perfected here which, it is claimed, will restore sight to men blinded by the most serious wounds and accidents. The experiments are being conducted by a Polish foreign legionary named Karn. Work upon the apparatus is being watched with the keenest interest by allied officials.

The perfection of the apparatus would be unusually timely, following upon the reports from German sources that the Huns are planning to use two new kinds of gases which blind their victims.

FOE GIVES RING TO YANK CONQUERORS

New York, Sept. 9.—At Knights of Columbus headquarters is shown a ring just received from the war front. It is made chiefly of silver and molded evidently in a crude mold, finished later by hand. It has, set in the metal the Belgian colors, surmounted by the date 1914, and, underneath, the date 1917.

The ring was made by a Belgian soldier who was killed by a Hun at Liege. This Hun fell a victim to an American sergeant's bayonet in the recent fighting and before he died he presented the ring to the American who had given him his death wound. He said that he had been forced to join the Kaiser's army, but, deep in his heart, he said, he hated the Kaiser and all his associates. He regretted that he had fought against the allies.

In the fight during which this Hun was bayoneted the American forces captured a woman garbed in a German soldier's uniform.

GASLESS SUNDAY

Request to Lay Aside Motor Cars Complied With Here—100 Per Cent Efficiency.

There was a general observance of the order of the National Fuel Administrator here yesterday to conserve gasoline by not using motor cars. There were comparatively few who violated the request and 100 per cent efficiency was recorded according to observers. Apart from the jitneys operating between this city and Camp Humphreys and cars of physicians and other who were using them for emergency cases there were but few cars to be seen on the streets. This was the second "motorless Sunday" to be observed in the campaign for the conservation of gasoline.

HUMPHREYS MAJOR ONLY 25 YEARS OLD

Camp Humphreys, Sept. 9.—A major at twenty-five, and the youngest divisional adjutant in the American army—that is the record made to date by Major John E. Harris, camp adjutant and one of the most interesting figures among the officers who are making Humphreys the greatest engineer training camp in the world.

As business manager of Camp Humphreys—for that would undoubtedly be his title in civil life—Major Harris has his finger on the pulse of the entire camp with the thousands and one details connected with the administration of a great military city of more than 30,000 men for twenty-four hours a day.

Major Harris was born at Pass Christian, Miss., and lieved there until he reached the age of twelve, when his family removed to California. After being graduated from the Redlands High School he was appointed to West Point, and upon being graduated in 1915, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the corps of engineers. He has seen service at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., Washington Barracks, Portland, Me.; and Fort Leavenworth. For two years or more he was engaged in military mapping. He is the proud possessor of the medals of an expert riflemen and pistol shot.

BIG CARNIVAL IN TOWN; PYTHIANS WILL BENEFIT

Under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias here Sibley's carnival, one of the biggest aggregations of its character in this country, arrived here from Wilmington, Del., on Sunday afternoon, and will be on Baggett's field opposite the Union station all this week, commencing tonight. As soon as the special train that brought this mammoth show here had side tracked on Fayette street Duncan's trucks undertook the gigantic task of transferring everything that goes to make up the fifteen big shows to the carnival grounds.

This carnival is a product of Virginia, Mr. Sibley hailing from Newport News, where the carnival has its winter quarters. That the Pythians of Alexandria will benefit substantially is expected and every member of the order is busily at work to make the engagement of the Sibley carnival a huge financial success.

WAR CAMP ACTIVITIES

Hundreds of Soldiers Guests Here Saturday Night And Given Breakfast Yesterday.

That Alexandria is fast growing in popularity as a desirable community for men in uniform to visit and spend their evenings enjoyably was evidenced Saturday night as every available cot provided at the St. Paul's Church, the Catholic Lyceum and most of those at the War Camp Community Service and the Armory were pressed into service.

It is gratifying contemplation that the people of Alexandria are becoming alive to the needs of a city like ours located near the several camps and are exhibiting a marked degree of loyalty on the part of many of our good citizens to the problems presented under these conditions, and it is hoped that each member of every household will do his or her part to aid in the work of caring for and making comfortable the soldier or sailor while he is in our midst.

At St. Paul's Church there has been placed more than forty cots with blankets and a fine piece of work has been accomplished by Emmett Dunn, vestryman of the church, by having caused to be built onto the southwest corner of the church, a very convenient room with cement floor, where shower baths, sanitary wash basins and all toilet requirements have been in-

REGISTRATION IN PROGRESS

A number of Alexandrians whose ages range from 18 to 45 years registered Saturday with the draft board. Names were received also at night. The board has been kept busy today registering those eligible for military service. All seem to be cheerful and willing to perform their duty should they be called to fight for their country.

It must be remembered that every man who is called on to register—and that means every man who will be eighteen on September 12 or who is under forty-six is subject to the call of the government. He is a part of the effective manpower of the nation, and if he is not called on to shoulder a gun he may be called on with perfect propriety to do something else. And in the word that comes from Washington it is made clear that he must get into some productive occupation; otherwise he will be inducted into the army. And there are thousands of jobs in the army that can be done by men who are not fit for active service—those limited military service jobs such as are held down by clerks and other noncombatants at the military camps and naval stations.

Let no man of family, or one who knows himself to be physically incapacitated for active military service, console himself with the idea that when he registers under the new manpower act he will be performing a perfunctory service, and registering is all there will be to it. If he does, he will be sadly deceiving himself.

Word came from Washington yesterday that he must either work or fight and that if he cannot fight for physical reasons, and the government decides not to take him into the army because he has a family, he must get into some productive occupation ;something that will help in putting the skid under the boche and winning the war. Moreover, they must work continuously at such jobs. Putting in two or three days a week and loafing the remainder of the time will not do.

RELIGION AMONG SOLDIERS

Stonewall Jackson carried his religion with him wherever he went. Attired in his Confederate uniform, the renowned strategist would creep into country churches unannounced and take the lowest seat. Duty toward God and man was his watchword, and having conscientiously performed it, he left the result with his Maker. It is a fact that he never lost a battle.

During the present war it is pleasant to note that United States soldiers are taking more interest in affairs spiritual than was ever known before in the history of our nation. They can be found among all Alexandria congregations on Sundays. During the warmest periods of the closing summer men in uniform, officers and privates, mingled with the people of this city in their various houses of worship. Yesterday in some places of worship a large percentage of the congregations was composed of uniformed men. They also attend Bible classes and manifest considerable interest in the study of the scriptures.

The pulpit in every church in Alexandria either yesterday morning or last night, was occupied by a chaplain from Camp Humphreys. Practically all preached patriotic sermons. It marked the opening of what has been designated as "play week" for the thousands of soldier boys at that camp which will be continued every evening this week in this city with a special program. This is a new departure in the line of war camp activities which has been inaugurated by the War Camp Community Service of this city.

A total of eighteen ministers, priests, chaplains and Y. M. C. A. workers took part in the services in the different churches here yesterday.

FLIGHT OF THE HUNS

In view of the rapid weakening of the Germans under the hammer blows of the Allies and the steady strengthening of the latter by the arrival of American troops, it does not seem unreasonably optimistic to hope that the Hun may be thrown entirely out of France before the close of 1918. Such a military acheivement would be much less surpising than many which go to form the astonishing record of the past seven weeks.

The distances to be traversed in such a retreat are small, to American eyes at least. They are little, if any, greater than the advances made by the Allies eastward from Montdidier in the past few weeks. The significance of such a withdrawal would be, of course, the German acknowledgment of defeat. A continuation of the struggle would involve an invasion of what the Kaiser calls "the sacred soil" of the Fatherland.

To the British, French and Americans there is naturally nothing sacred about the Huns' territory, and they will not share Wilhelm's feelings on this point. If von Hindenburg and Ludendorff continue the present flight at their present pace—and apparently they have no means of checking it—the prospect of carrying the war into the enemy's country at a comparatively early date will depend entirely upon his willingness to make an unconditional surrender. This is by no means an impossibility. As Vernon Kellogg points out in the current Atlantic Monthly, there is a yellow streak in the Hun. Before submitting to see his "sacred soil" ravaged in the fashion in which he is so skillful, he is likely to throw up his hands, cry "Kamerad," and try to make the best terms possible for himself.

PENALTY FOR MURDER

That murder in the first degree may, after January 9, 1920, be punished by confinement in the penitentiary for any term not less than twenty years is one of the substantial changes in the new Code adopted by the last General Assembly. Prior to 1914, that crime could be punished only by death sentence. The Assembly of 1914 amended the law to allow the crime to be punished also by life sentence, in option of the trial jury. The Code adopted last winter added the twenty-year term to the provisions for the disposition of those found guilty of first degree murder.

The penalty for murder in the second degree is a term of years from five to twenty. The change makes it unnecessary for a jury to bring in a verdict of murder in the second degree when the evidence shows murder in the first, which quite often happened under the former law.

The new Code increases the minimum number of a regular grand jury from nine to eleven, and reduces juries in misdemeanor cases from seven to five.

One of the first exercises of the act of 1914 allowing murder in the first degree to be punished by a life term in the penitentiary occurred when the jury invoked that right in the verdict against Dr. Asa Chamberlain, of Goochland, who slaughtered his brother, "Judge" Chamberlain, hauled him home with him and buried his dismembered body in postholes on his own estate.

JEWISH NEW YEAR

The third day of the Jewish New Year was observed in synagogues throughout the country yesterday with special services. President Wilson's message, indorsing Palestine as a homeland for the Jewish people was read at all synagogues in Washington.

Representative C. F. Reavis told of his experiences in the French war zones at the Eighth Street Temple in the forenoon.

Mr. Reavis spoke of the billeting of American troops in villages behind the lines, and of the soldiers' associations with the simple agricultural people of France. He told of being in American trenches on German soil, from which he could see the valley of the Rhine and the Black forest of Germany in the background.

"I predict that with the army which the United States will have in France by next spring, fully equipped, and with an ample aircraft supply, that the war can be brought to an end by autumn of 1919," said Mr. Reavis. "The war lords of Germany are convinced of the impossibility of winning this war, but the German people are kept in ignorance of the true condition."

Home Run to Berlin.

(N. P. Eigelberner in the Baltimore Sun.)

Our hopes today are raised.
Great God on high be praised!
The Germans now are making runs
For home, along with beastly Huns.
Brave Sammies, shell them till they reach
The Rhine's revered and sheltered beach.
With valor shell them more and more
Till far beyond that coted shore.
To old Berlin carve out a lane
For conquering troops and aeroplane.
March on with bayonet and shell.
March on, for Wilson's words must tell
The Kaiser something more
Than "mere commercial war"
The ills his treach'ry made
Outvie dark hell-wrought shade.
March on, true Sammies, march, be strong!
For you our prayers ascend and song.
March on! Unfalt'ring go
To the Blue Danube surging flood
And Brandenburg e're snow
Is crimsoned by more human blood.

Letter From France

The following interesting letter written by Ordinance Sergt. John E. Howell, now somewhere in France with the A. E. F., dated August 6, has been received by his mother, Mrs. F. R. Howell, 109 South Royal street, and in part is as follows:

"Another Sunday in this neck of the woods, but to see how things are going you would never know it was Sunday. Every day is just the same here. "Get the Hun" is the slogan, although a new one has just been sprung and it is "Hoboken or Home by Christmas." In a way this fellow is right, but he did not say what year, and we all have hopes.

I met another Alexandrian last night, Sergt. Steiner. He is just back from the front, having received a little Hun gas which knocked him out temporarily but did not prevent him going back and getting a few of it. He is in a regiment which has been cited for bravery in several dispatches, and says he thought the first time at the front he would never see Alexandria again, but now he thinks differently as he has gotten into the game and is of the opinion that it is not so bad.

Steiner told me he met an Alexandrian going in to relieve them just as they were coming out and it made him feel like remaining longer, but he just couldn't as they were pretty tired and dirty.

It hardly seems possible that the Allies have so many soldiers and guns. There is one continuous string going up to treat Fritz with a few more steel drinks.

If anyone tells you your old Uncle Sam is not in this war for keeps and to put an end to it just tell them to come over and see. Then they certainly will change their mind.

France is a very pretty country, but "The Good Old U. S. A." sure hits me and suits to a "T." Don't get the idea that I am homesick; nothing doing, but just can't help thinking of home; we will be there before long too; dont worry.

From the way things look here and according to reports it won't be much longer, not over two years."

VIRGINIA NEWS

Capt. Walter J. Tennent, of Baltimore, commander of Battery E. 111th field artillery, has written to Mayor Harry Wooding regarding a chivalrous act done by the Danville men composing the organization in France. The battery is quartered in a French village. Recently one of the most impoverished families there, composed of an aged man, a woman and eight small children, lost their entire wheat supply through fire. The Southern men, touched by the pitiful plight of the family, made up a purse which, according to Capt. Tennant, "was very much in excess of what was advisable to give to the farmer."

With the arrival of 8,475 new drafted men at Camp Lee last week all previous records in the history of the cantonment for the receipt of men in a two weeks' period were broken. The camp the previous week received approximately 12,000 draftees, of which number 10,000 were white men from Pennsylvania and 2,500 were negroes from Virginia and the District of Columbia. In the two-weeks' period the camp has received 20,000 men, surpassing by approximately 4,000 the largest previous draft in the same length of time.

Corporal Joseph C. Manger, of the Second battalion, 155th depot brigade, at Camp Lee, has just been sentenced to five years at hard labor for making disloyal remarks against the United States. Although born in this country, Manger is of Bavarian parentage. He was forwarded to Camp Lee from Uniontown, Pa.

Ruthlessly shot down by an unknown negro Saturday morning in a branch store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, at Leigh and Harrison streets, Richmond, James C. Bowman, a well known citizen of Richmond, died shortly after he had been admitted to the Virginia Hospital. The crime took place about 8 o'clock, when Mr. Bowman, temporarily filling the place of cashier, refused to hand over the stores' receipts to the negro. The bullet penetrated his thigh. Loss of blood caused his death.

The Ninth Virginia District Republican Committee has voted not to hold a district convention this year. A resolution was drawn up endorsing Congressman C. B. Slemp as a candidate for re-election. Mr. Slemp will make the race this fall without opposition as the Democrats of the district have decided not to place a candidate in the field.

Right Rev. Monsignor James T. O'Farrell, vicar general of the diocese of Richmond, has gone to Norfolk to assume charge of the Catholic parish of St. Mary's. He will succeed Rev. Father John Doherty, who died suddenly August 8. Monsignor O'Farrell has been serving as rector of Sacred Heart Cathedral for five years, and has endeared himself to Richmond Catholics. He will be succeeded by Rev. Father Felix Kaup, assistant rector, and chancellor of the diocese of Richmond.

Your Winter's Coal Supply

On account of rulings of the U. S. Fuel Administration, it seems doubtful if Virginia will receive sufficient anthracite coal to supply the demands. If present rulings are maintained, this shortage will be very great in Alexandria and we earnestly advise our customers to put in a reasonable amount of bituminous coal as a safeguard against a coal shortage next winter.

We are now securing some very fine bituminous coal which we believe will work in all characters of coal burners but the Latrobe stoves.

WAR CAMP ACTIVITIES

stalled, making conditions for the comfort of the men ideal.

The Young Men's Sodality Lyceum has installed fifty cots and the men thoroughly enjoy the hospitality extended there.

The War Camp Community Service now occupying the Elks Building at Prince and Royal streets acts as a "Clearing House" for the furnishing of sleeping accommodations as most of the men make this their headquarters when they come to the city. The arrangements of this hall could not be improved upon for the use and comfort of the men in uniform where the club facilities, including canteen, reading, writing and rest rooms, billiard tables, hall for dancing and entertainments and commodious dormitory for sleeping is especially adapted to the requirements.

Too much cannot be said in behalf of the committees made up of the different churches among the ladies who go to the W. C. C. S. headquarters evey Saturday afternoon to make preparations for a fine Sunday morning breakfast for the men who spend the night there and at the other sleeping quarters. These ladies assemble bright and early and proceed to feed the men breakfast which would cost far more than the small amount they pay for it.

The best manner in which to judge of the work being accomplished, is to hear the voluntary expressions of the men themselves, the most popular of which is "All the boys certainly appreciate the great work and hospitality shown them by the people of Alexandria."

The care of the colored men in uniform is by no means forgotten. The colored Odd Fellows' and Elks' Club will soon be ready to turn over a competent secretary. These are being well fitted up to care for the men in this branch of the service.

ALIBI BY HINDENBURG.

Zurich, via Paris, Sept. 9.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, it is learned from German sources, disclaims all responsibility for the failure of the German July offensive.

It is said Hindenburg left German headquarters in great disgust for an inspection tour of the Lorraine front after he had failed to argue the Crown Prince out of the latter's conviction that the Germans should strike on the Marne before the Americans were in France in greater force.

GERMANS TO CONDUCT A WAR OF DEFENSE IN FUTURE

Amsterdam, Sept. 9.—Because of the increasing American army in Europe and the almost inexhaustible supplies of the allies, the German high command has decided to conduct a warfare of defense in the future and not attempt a campaign of offensive, said Colonel Gaedke, writing in the German newspaper Vorwaerts, said a dispatch from Berlin todway.

The Value of a Letter to a Soldier

To the Editor of the Gazette:

"Write a letter to a soldier when you haven't much to do; it will brace some homesick fellow who is feeling pretty blue. Oh, our boys are lion-hearted, and they'll whip their weight in snakes, but they have their lonesome moments when their hearts are full of aches; there are hours when they are longing for the homes so far away, and the girls left behind them, and the parents old and gray; and a letter full of sunshine makes their melancholy shrink—therefore get your pen in action, with a demijohn of ink. Write a letter to a soldier, full of cheerfulness and joy; let the sob stuff go to thunder—it won't help a lonesome boy. Tell the soldier you are betting he will make the Teuton fly, tell him all is hunkydory, and the goose is hanging high. Tell him all his friends are banking on the big things he'll achieve, let him know he's not forgotten since he took his final leave. Write a letter to a soldier ere you go to bed tonight; some poor chap is tired of waiting for the letter you don't write. It will take you fifteen minutes such a letter to compose, and you'll hearten up a soldier when he's billed to face the foes. Make it bright and brave and breezy, full of courage, smiles and snap, show the confidence you're feeling in the outcome of the scrap, and some soldier boy will bless you as he takes his little gun, and prepares to shoot the gizzard from a lewd, immoral Hun."

Corporal St. Clair D. Shelton,
"Somewhee in France."

Corp. Shelton in his letter to the editor, written August 9, says: "All the boys from Alexandria are well and getting along nicely and I hope to be able to send you a report of having done some good work in the way of soaking the Kaiser before long. Remember me to all the boys."

The death of Prince Ferdinand of Solms-Hohensolms-Lich is announced by the German newspapers. He was killed on the battle front last Sunday while in command of an infantry battalion. He was born at Weimar, Germany, in 1886.
